Tam and Cam

A VIETNAMESE FOLKTALE

retold by Linda Blair

Tam and Cam were stepisters. Tam's mother died when she was young, and her stepmother made her do all the farm work while Cam, the mother's own daughter, played from morning to night.

One day, the stepmother sent the girls to fish for shrimp in the rice paddies and promised a fine silk hat to the one who found the most. The sun was hot, but Tam waded into the paddy and worked hard until she had a whole basket of shrimp. Meanwhile, Cam slept in the shade of a bamboo grove. At sunset, her basket was empty, but she thought of a trick.
