

Bookemon – Publish Your Family History

<http://www.bookemon.com>

Accessed October 20, 2010

This free website helps you write your family history. It will print it out for you, at a price.

Here is an example of the form that starts you out.

The screenshot shows the Bookemon website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the Bookemon logo (beta), a 'Book of the Year Contest' banner, and a search bar. Below the navigation bar, there are links for 'myHome', 'My Books', 'Create', 'People', 'Explore', 'Store', 'edCenter', 'Cart', 'Suggestion Box', 'Help', 'Log Out', and 'rbeery@aol.com'. The main content area is divided into two sections: 'Product Format and Theme' and 'Product Information'. The 'Product Format and Theme' section includes fields for 'Create Book From:' (Family Book (8.5x11)), 'Product Format:' (8.5 x 11 - Choice of Hardcover/Softcover - Color - Picture Book), 'Page From:' (from 20 to 100 pages), 'Printing Price:' (with a 'Book price calculator' button), and 'Theme:' (Family). The 'Product Information' section includes fields for 'Title:' (Beery Family of Platte County, Missouri), 'Subtitle:' (From Mennonite to Mainstream), 'Author:' (Raymond E. Beery), 'Description:' (By the time the Beery family came to northwest Missouri in 1842, these folks were descendants of pioneers in Pennsylvania, Virginia and Ohio over four generations. From the Missouri branch of the family, there), 'Tags:' (with a lightbulb icon and a note 'Use a comma to separate tags'), and 'Author Bio:' (Col. Ray Beery, USAF-Ret., has taught more than eight GMU Learning in Retirement courses in the arts, politics, genealogy and computing. He has a BA in International Relations, MBA in Information Science and).
