OLLI'S RECORDED CLASS ARCHIVE

Classes At Your Fingertips!

DO YOU KNOW? Many of OLLI's live virtual classes are recorded in real time so that members can view them afterwards. There is an online library of OLLI classes, both from past terms and from the current term. You can find links to them on our OLLI Web Site (see instructions below).

Suppose that you have an appointment – could be a dentist, doctor, car repair, vaccination session, or even an outing with a friend or spouse. There is a class that you are interested in taking, BUT the timing conflicts. None of us are clever enough to be in two places at the same time!

Or suppose...

... several OLLI courses appeal to you, but they meet at the same time. What to do, what to do? Decisions, decisions!

... you are planning to view a virtual class but at the time of its scheduled start, your Internet connection goes down.

... you are a new OLLI member and you aren't sure if a certain course or instructor is quite your cup of tea. You would like to sample the class or a similar one.

... you are brand new to OLLI and have joined mid-term. How will you "catch up"?

... it is between terms and you have some free time to learn about photography or just relax with music. You wish that you could sit in on a session for such an intriguing subject from the comfort of your own sofa and for free, no strings attached.

Problem solved: look for the link to OLLI's archive of recordings. Hundreds are available. Links include OLLI classes from the current term and from previous terms, if the instructor had agreed to be recorded.

Access the recording links from the OLLI Home Page (olli.gmu.edu), pull down the Quick Links menu, and click on the Class Video Recordings selection. The current passcode is available in the Daily Schedule email.

An OLLI treasure trove is just waiting for you to discover 24/7, readily available to all members, near or far.
